Rev. Frederick Alfred Aston,

New York, N. Y.

Dear Mr. Aston:

I appreciate your letter and articles very much and it is not from the lack of interest but the lack of space that I have been unable to print more. I do not know what the next few weeks will develop but we will try to give place to that which you desire. I receive copies of "Our Jewish Neighbors."

Yours very truly,

WCR*E

Dr. Courtland Robinson,
Editor, The Preebyterian,
1217 Market Street,
Philadelphia, Penna.

My dear Dr. Robinson:

I am taking the liberty of bringing up a matter before you which, I trust, will touch your heart, if you fully realize that the entire development of the Kingdom of God is intimately bound up with the conversion of the Jews. The popular opinion among ministers is to have little or no use whatever for Jewish Missions. Even as a theological student I had to experience lack of love on the part of Gentile students. But this indifference to me only increased my love for my Saviour who himself was a Jew. And so were Paul, Peter, John and the rest of the Apostles.

Dr. John Stuart Conning writes in "Our Jewish Neighbors" (Vol.XI, No.3, March 1932). ~~Prejudice~~

"Prejudice and unchristian conduct, often fostered by an intolerant theology, have hidden the face of Christ from the people that gave Him birth and with whose followers they have always been in contact."

Will you not kindly see whether it be possible for you to write an editorial on "Jewish Missions" and also publish my experiences in the Jewish Mission field which I had mailed you several months ago.

If you love the Jewish Christ, why not be filled with sorrow for His people who do not know Him? If you treasure and admire the labors of Paul, a Jewish Missionary of no small calibre, why not join with him in ~~saying~~ prayer:

"Brethren, my heart's desire and prayer to God for Israel is, that they might besaved."

Very sincerely yours,

Frederick Alfred Aston

Rev. Martin E. Anderson, D.D.,
Central Presbyterian Church,
Denver, Colo.

Dear Dr. Anderson:

The Church is looking forward to meeting again at Denver and I have no doubt that your own church is planning and working and I hope anticipating the meeting. It was my privilege to attend the last Denver Assembly as a visitor. I then had a cousin, William P. Robinson, who was at the head of the Denver Water Company but has since died. I recall the fine way in which everyone was entertained.

We are trying through Rev. J. Mont Travis to have an article concerning some Denver churches in our General Assembly Number. I wonder if you could send us a cut of the Central Church in which everyone will have an interest. We do not know exactly what form the article will take but Dr. Travis is looking after it.

Yours very sincerely,

Dear Mr. Aston:

It will be impossible for us to print your articles on Hebrew Missions at least for some time. I can return the manuscript if you desire.

Yours most sincerely,

My dear Carl:

I have just heard that your resignation as Editor of the Presbyterian has actually taken place. Well I can't blame you for the step, for I know it has been a hard position, harder than preaching, but I am exceedingly sorry that you felt it necessary to take the step. I have enjoyed the paper so much in the last eight months, and I shall miss your hand at the helm. But you have had forty years of hard work, and now in your declining years you certainly deserve a rest, but I shall miss you sorely.

I am wondering what you are planning to do now that your active life is about over. Are you going to continue living in Philadelphia, or are you going back to your native town to settle down? Or are you planning ~~for~~ to live near Stewart? Perhaps you are not yet decided but I imagine you have a pretty good idea I shall be glad to hear from you. When does your resignation take effect? I knew you were planning this move because you told me so, but somehow I did not realize it was coming quite so soon. It was not until I saw Mrs. Frazer but a few days ago, that I knew it was really a fact.

Well Count, we are both growing old. You are sixty-six and I very soon will be. The best of life is over for us. We are travelling into the sunset, and before ~~many~~ years we will both have gone to join our loved ones on the other side. Write me and tell me what your future plans are, as to residence, and accept my best wishes for a happy life, free from the cares and perplexities of a public life.

Give my love to Gus. and every good wish for the future.

Most affectionately

Mai
